Your answer

The best storytellers make us care for the people in their stories by focusing less on the "what" and more on the "how" and "why." How and why does human emotion make stories more memorable? *

Your answer

How does Steve Hartman explain the "niche" that he has carved out for himself as one of CBS's most successful feature storytellers? *

Your answer

Above all else, perhaps the MOST important ingredient in storytelling is the writing. While quality sound and video is extremely important, there is no replacement for quality writing. Briefly describe the eight important tips for writing great stories. Click below to go straight to the article.
